PLAYING WILL BEGIN TO-DAY

Cleveland Anxious to Win from Indianapolis the First League Ball Game.

St. Louis Breaks Its Record-Cincinnati, Baltimore and the Athletics Take Games from Their Opponents-Memphis Races.

The League base-ball championship season will open to-day, and the Hoosiers will meet the Cleveland team in the first of a series of four games on the home grounds, at 4 o'clock. The local management has made extensive preparations for the occasion, and if the conditions are favorable, the start will be in first-class style. At 2:30 o'clock the two clubs will leave the New Denison, and go through the principal down-town streets led by the When Band. team will ride in home Frank Bird's tally-ho coach, befour borses, while the visitors will follow in carriages, all of the players being in uniform. The invitations sent out to the Governor, State officials and other prominent people have been very generally accepted, and as the advance sale of seats is large, the capacity of the grounds will, no doubt, be tested to its utmost by a representative crowd. The band will be in the grand stand, and between innings

Will play.
The visiting club, with sixteen members, arrived at 10:30 o'clock last night, and registered at the New son. Manager Loftus said to a reporter that his team is in fairly good shape and he feels confident that he Hoosiers will get no more than two of the series. He thinks they will be kept very busy to do that well. The Clevelands will have out all of their regular players with their best pitcher in the box. The men all look to be in first-class condition. The team has been playing as good ball as any club in the League in the exhibition games. Snyder joined it here, having arrived day before yesterday. He has been practicing with the local players. He has not caught in any of the regular games, though he claims to be in good form. The Hoosiers have had a rest for three days, and are ready for the fun to begin. Getzien, who will pitch, is in good condition, and that he will do his best to win the opening game goes without the saying. In fact, all of the Hoosiers will do utmost, and if the visitors a victory this afternoon they will have to play hard for it. Captain Glasscock and his men recognize the importance of winning as many as possible of the opening games and to-day's contest will be played for all there

The management, expecting a large crowd, has arranged for an additional turn stile at the Mississippi street gate and all those holding season books or reserved seats are requested to go through that en-trance. It will facilitate matters very much. The two teams will be played as

Hines	Center	McAleer
Glasscock	Short	McKean

The home team has a splendid system of signals. They have worked well in the practice games.

Indianapolis was a favorite over Cleve-land in the pool rooms last night, the odds being nearly two to one.

Captain Glasscock will be heard on the coacher's lines this afternoon, and Mc-Geachy will be to the front also.

American Association. LOUISVILLE, 17: ST. LOUIS, 7.

LOUISVILLE, April 23 .- St. Louis was defeated here, to-day, by Hudson's failure in the box. He was hit freely from the second inning. Errors by St. Louis helped out the score. Hecker pitched a strong game, and only seven hits were made off him. Louisville had Kerins and Ehret in place of Tomney and Browning, and the fielding was perceptibly better. Attendance about 1,000. The New York Club Loses Its Grounds. NEW YORK, April 23 .- The New York Base-ball Club is homeless. Governor Hill to-day vetoed the bill recently passed by the Legislature to prevent the cutting of streets through the Polo grounds. The struggle between the property-holders i the vicinity of the Polo grounds and the friends of base-ball has been going on for about two years, and the lovers of sport have so far been able to prevent the cutting up of the grounds of the New York club, but the action of the Governor to-day ends the struggle, and the property-holders are finally victorious. The managers of the New York club felt sure they could prevent the destruction of the grounds, and accordingly have made no arrangements looking toward new grounds. They have the choice between Staten island and the Jersey flats. Memphis Jockey Club Races.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 23 .- This was the second day of the annual spring meeting of the Memphis Jockey Club. The weather was simply charming, the track in splendid condition, and the attendance showed quite an increase over yesterday. The judges were Messrs. John Overton, jr., Zeb Ward and Sam Tate. jr. Mr. James G. Sheridan officiated as starter.

First Race—Selling purse; three-year-olds; three-quarters mile. The start was a straggling one, Los Webster being two lengths in front of Sunflower, who was a length in front of J. T., and three lengths separated him from the others, who were bunched. The commanding lead of Los Webster was taken advantage of by his jockey, and he was never headed, winning handily by a length from Macauley, second, and a head in front of Mandolin, third. Time, 1:17. The odds against the winner were twenty to one.

Second Race-Purse; for all ages; one and one-sixteenth mile. Tudor was slightly in the lead at the start, with Albert Stoll second, and the other two close up. Albert Stoll took the lead at the seven-eighths post, and led the way all round, lapped by Long Chance. When they all swung into the home stretch, Long Chance and Lottie Wall challenged the leader. They raced with him for a short distance and then drew away from him. The finish was close, Lottie Wall winning by half a length from Long Chance second, and two lengths in front of Tudor third. Time, 1:51.

Third Race—Tennessee Club stakes, for three-year-olds; $750 added; one mile. The start was a very even one, all being bunched. Cassius soon took the lead, closely followed by Le Premier and Brown Pincess, with the others well up. They raced in this position for three-fourths of a mile, when Brown Princess began mov-ing up and joined Cassius. They raced home in this position, Brown Princess win-ning by half a length from Cassius, who was second, and one length in front of Boodler third. Time, 1:45. Fourth Race—Purse; for two-year-olds; five-eighths mile. Amelia was in front at the start, and was never headed, winning easily by a length from Lady Blackburn, who was second, and a neck in front of Mt. Lebanon third. Time, 1:04. Fifth Race—Selling purse; for all ages;

one and one-sixteenth mile. The start was an even one, and when they passed the grand stand Insolence was leading Pat Sheedy by a neck, with the others well up and bunched. Insolence maintained his lead all around the course and into the stretch, when Barnes, on Hamlet, challenged him, and after a sharp fight, shot to the front and won by half a length, with Insolence second, and a length in front of Red Leaf third. Time, 1:50,

MEETINGS OF ORDERS.

Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum and the Condition of the Order.

The annual meeting of the Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum of Indiana will take place at the New Denison hotel to-day. The chief officers of the council are, George W. Ball, Lafayette, grand regent; Edward E. Schroer, Indianapolis, grand secretary, and N. S. Byram, grand treasurer. There will be sixty or seventy delegates present, many of whom arrived yesterday. Yesterday afternoon the trustees and finance committee met and transacted some business pertaining to the meeting to-day. Those present were, H. B. Foster, Madison; James W. Campbell, South Bend, and Charles E. Haugh, Indianapolis. The reports of the officers of the council, which will be submitted, make a very encouraging showing. The report of Grand Regent Ball covers fifteen printed pages, and contains a great deal of information of interest to the order. The total membership on April 1 was 2,053, a net gain of 316 during the year. At the last session of the Grand Council there were thirty subordinate councils. Now there are thirty-three. The Supreme Council made a net gain of

7,700 during the year. The new councils organized are at Marion, Raub and at Evansville. In regard to the organization of new councils, the grand regent says: "This department of our work demands our earnest consideration at this session. We have a splended field for work, and the order should be extended as soon as possible into the available, unoccupied portion of our jurisdiction. Kindred orders are reaching out into this territory, and we are thereby losing ground by delaying this matter." The condition of the subordinate councils, he says, is good, and some are extraordinarily prosperous. During the year there were thirteen deaths in the jurisdiction, two being of past grand officers, Macy Good, of Rock City Council, of Wabash, and Thomas H. Clapp, of Indiana Council, No. 128, of Into the organization of new councils, the Clapp, of Indiana Council, No. 128, of In-dianapolis. The former had served as grand warden, and the latter as grand chap-

Grand Secretary Schroer, in his report, submitted the following statement in regard to the membership of the council: Number of members Dec. 31, 1887, 1,665; admitted by initiation, 316; admitted by card, 19; reinstated, 1; total, 1,691. Withdrawn by card, 13; suspended, 46; deceased, 13; total, 72. The financial statement shows receipts: Per capita tax from councils, $1,861; charter fees, $300; supplies, $116.45; balance on hand from last year, $700.64; total, $2,978.09. Disbursements: Orders drawn on grand treasurer, $2,242.76; balance in treasury, $785.33. In concluding his report, the grand secretary says: "The system of official visitations, so often advocated by me, has been given a practical trial in this jurisdiction, during the past year, as all but three councils have been visited, either by the grand regent personally, or by proper deputy to represent him. The system has been beneficial in its results, and should be maintained in the future under the supervision of your grand regent. The fact that a council is visited its original by some grand officer aids to encourage the abundant. AYER'S Hair Vigor restores gray hair to its original color, makes it vigorous and

A New Knights of Pythias Lodge. A new lodge of Knights of Pythias, the ninth in the city, was organized yesterday afternoon, with a membership of seventy. The ceremony was begun at 2 o'clock, in the hall on Virginia avenue, conducted by Grand Chancellor John H. Russe, or Knightstown. At 8 o'clock in the evening the exercises were resumed, Chancellor Russe being assisted by Grand Instructor W. L. Heiskell, of this city, and it was not expected that the last man would be put through before 6 o'clock this morning. It is the custom of the order to reserve naming a lodge until after it has been instituted, which is the last of the ceremony, and will probably be an after-breakfast act to-day. Odd-Fellows' Anniversary. The Odd-fellows will celebrate the sev entieth anniversary of American Odd-fellowship at Danville. The Indianapolis Canton, under command of Captain Bodine, will attend in a body. It will be accompanied by a large number of other Odd-fellows from this city.

THE HENDRICKS CLUB.

Very Little Attention Given to Patriotism, but a Great Deal to Democracy.

After a notice that Senator David Turpie would address the Hendricks Club last night, about sixty members of the organization met at their hall on Tennessee street. Before the address began, the president of the Club, Myron D. King, stated that he had received a communication from the executive committee in charge of the Washington celebration, asking that the club turn out in the parade. For some moments after the reading of the invitation the men who claim to be the cream of Indianapolis Democracy remained silent, until, after a repeated question from the president as to what disposition the club desired to make of the matter, one ventured to move that the invitation be accepted and the club participate in the day's exercises. The motion fell like a wet blanket among the members, for it was not until Mr. King had asked a second time for a second, that another patriot responded so as to make the motion presentable for being voted upon. "The question before the club," said the president, "is whether or not we will attend the Washington inauguration celebration." A vive voce vote was taken, resulting in a revive voce vote was taken, resulting in a response from three out of sixty for, and one emphatically against accepting the invitation. The other fifty-six disdained to even consider the matter of sufficient importance to deserve any notice whatever.

Senator Turpie was then introduced, and for some time he talked about the old questions of the last campaign, closing with a glowing account of what the Democratic party had done in four years of administration. According to his version of the af-tion. According to his version of the affairs in America to-day, the present pros-perity of the country and all its future suc-cess is and will be the direct result of Grover Cleveland's superior wisdom. An impartial survey of the affairs of the gov-ernment at the close of the last administra-tion, he thought, left no room for regret on the part of the Democratic party, and al-though it had labored hard to continue in power and had failed, its ranks had been power and had failed, its ranks had been increased. Among the immerous reforms that President Cleveland had instituted, the speaker said, was the marked im-provement in the navy. It is now effective for the first time since the war, before which time it was a disgrace to the Nation. Through the great foresight and skill of ex-Secretary Whitney, Senator Turpie claimed, this great improvement has come, and it was asserted as an undisputed fact that men of all parties give him the credit of revolutionizing our system of defense on the high seas. Another feature of Democratic reform is the Department of Agriculture. The first Secretary of Agriculture ever recognized in a President's Cabinet was made a possibility under Democratic policies.

"There is another department I want to see represented in the Cabinet," continued the Senator, "and that is a de-partment of labor and indus-trial arts. We have a Secretary of War, and war is a destructive factor in national government. We need a Secretary of Labor, for labor is constructive. The Democratic party is in such close sympathy with the laboring man that it would like to see him be represented at the table of the Democratic legislation, he said, also authorized commissioners to meet represent-atives from South and Central America and negotiate for a closer commercial relation between those countries and the United States. He regretted that Cleveland had fortunate, for he was convinced that a majority of Republicans in the commission would offer terms of commercial union that would be destructive to the interests of their own country. But one of the greatest benefits the United States has realized from four years of Democratic rule was the admission of four new States. All of the offi-cial acts necessary to make them States were done under Cleveland and the only thing that now remains is to call the several conventions. The speaker even suggested the idea that the opening of the Oklahoma territory was made a possibility through Democratic legislation. Although the original bill touching the Oklahoma matter was defeated in both houses of Congress, it was rushed through by Mr. Mills and a Democratic majority.

The speaker then touched upon the relation of the United States to foreign countries, claiming that, with the exception of the Samoan difficulty, Democracy had bred peace, and even it was the result of inferior vessels that had been built under the direction of Republican Secretaries. The tariff question and political bribery were also given a quarter of an hour in being commented upon. After announcing that the Democratic party never has been will-ing to enter the vote market, and so long as it retains its present purity as a party it never will stoop so low as to purchase bal-lots, the Senator closed with the hope that the time would come when all political or-ganizations would refrain from fraud with-out being so compelled by statute or law.

The Denver Bank Trick Again. VENTURA, Cal., April 23.—To-day, at noon, a bold attempt at bank robbery was made by a man named McCarthy, who was recently discharged from the county hospital. He entered Collins & Son's Bank while He entered Collins & Son's Bank while Cashier Collins was gone to lunch, leaving Jack Morrison alone. McCarthy entered and complained of his poverty and desperation, which had drawn him to think of suicide. He laid a package on the counter, which he said was dynamite, drew a six shooter and demanded $30,000. Morrison dodged behind the counter, and ran out of the back door. The robber then seized a tray containing about $4,000 and walked into the street. Morrison gave an alarm, and people gathered on the street, but no and people gathered on the street, but no one was armed. The thief had a horse hitched near the bank, and was making for that. The sheriff happened to be near, but was without fire-arms. He stepped into a hardware store and seized a shotgun, when the robber suddenly surrendered. The money was all recovered except $20, which was probably lost on the street.

Seriously Stabbed by a Convict. AUBURN, N. Y., April 23.—George Brown, a keeper in the prison, was stabbed in the abdomen by a convict named Mortimore this afternoon. The wound, while not necessarily fatal, is very serious, being about four inches deep. Mortimore is a Sing Sing transfer, and comes from New York city, where he has a hard reputation, having been a member of the notorious Whyo gang. He at one time fought a duel with the late Dan Driscoll, the leader of the gang.

The Chess Tournament.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The chess games to-day resulted: Won-Hanaham, Pollock, Judd, Blackburn, Lipschutz, Burn. Lost-MacLeod, Bird, Gunsberg, Mason, Burrille, J. W. Baird. Draws-Weiss and D. G. Baird, Gossip and Showalter, Taubenhaus and Delmar, Martinez and Tschigorin. HONORS TO CAPTAIN MURRELL.

Given a Reception by the Maritime Exchange, and Tendered Many Courtesies.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 .- "Qh, don't call it noble, it was only my duty. I'm sure,' said Capt. Hamilton Murrell, as he was welcomed and congratulated at the Maritime Exchange by President Wm. Brockie, this afternoon. Capt. Murrell has been lionized to an extent that is simply amazing. Long before the hour of noon, which had been set for the public reception, the spacious rooms of the exchange, and the still more spacious street in front of it, contained thousands of people of all ages and of both sexes, who had, in some instances, traveled many miles to pay homage to the young captain. The cheers which greeted the good-natured and humane master as he entered the exchange were deafening, and several minutes elapsed before a voice could be heard. It was exactly noon when Capt. Murrell was escorted to a commanding position in the main hall of the exchange, and when the enthusiastic demonstrations had subsided for a moment he was introduced by President Brockie to the immense throng present. District Attorney Graham then stepped to the Captain's side and presented him with the only gold medal ever given by the Pennsylvania Humane Society. It was a handsome specimen of the goldsmith's handiwork, and its presentation by Mr. Graham, on behalf of the society, was one of the most pleasing features of the occasion. In replying to the brief speech of Mr. Graham, Captain Murrell said: "I don't know how to find words to tell you how I feel. I want to give my officers and men the credit for an act which was only a duty. There was nothing heroic about it. It was only an Englishman's duty, and I might be in the same plight myself some day. There was nothing heroic on my part. I only considered the cargo, and when human lives were to be saved the cargo was nothing, therefore it had to go."

When the Captain had spoken his few words and the cheering had subsided, there was a rush to grasp his hand, and for nearly an hour he shook the hands of all those who could get near him. Vice-consul Lars Westergaard, of Sweden and Norway, was introduced to the Captain, and said, in a voice full of emotion: "As vice-consul of Sweden and Norway at this port, I feel very deeply impressed with the great and glorious fact that, under Prov-idence, you were the happy me-dium that saved several hundred Scandinavians and Danes from the ill-fated steamship Danmark, as well as her captain and crew. It is very pleasant for all of us here assembled to welcome you, to know that you, sir, proved the right man in the right place. And now allow me, as treasurer of this exchange, on behalf of and in the name of the directors of the Maritime Exchange of Philadelphia, to tender you an honary mem-bership of this exchange, which please ac-cept, and rest assured that we shall be glad to see you on this floor as often as it may to see you on this floor as often as it may suit your convenience to call."

After a few words of thanks, Captain Murrell was presented with a sprig of ivy which came from Westminster Abbey and a beautifully bound miniature copy of the Constitution of the United States. A telegram from Funch, Edye & Co., New York. as the representatives of the Thingvalla line, addressed to Peter Wright & Sons, was read by President Brockie, and was cheered unstintedly. It ran as follows: cheered unstintedly. It ran as follows:

Kindly convey, on the occasion of his recep-tion at the Maritime Exchange, to Captain Mur-rell, on behalf of the Thingvalla company, our heartfelt thanks for all he has done for the pas-sengers and crew of the ill-fated Danmark. Bet-ter than all acknowledgment that Captain Mur-rell will receive, and so abundantly is antitled to rell will receive, and so abundantly is entitled to, may be considered the feeling he can entertain of having, with God's help, been the medium of saving so much life and nobly to have done his duty to suffering humanity. It is no disparagement of Captain Murrell's deserts if we beg leave to include in our thanks the entire crew of the Missouri, who have from first to last so well assisted their commander in his work of charity and love. May God speed them all in their pro-ceedings and protect them from similar disaster, even though they should in time of need meet such nowle friends as the Danmark found.

After the reception at the Exchange had been concluded, the Captain was taken to the Mayor's office, and was by Mayor Fitler, in a neat and fitting speech, welcomed to the city. He was introduced to the city officials, and from all of them received the kindest of words of praise; but through it all he was the same blushing, modest and unassuming, young and plain Captain Murrell. Between now and Thursday, when the Captain expects to have his boat discharged and proceed to Baltimore, he will be a social lion. Already he has been obliged to decline many kind offers of entertainment, and enjoyment. To night he tertainment and enjoyment. To-night he attended the annual dinner of the Sons of States. He regretted that Cleveland had not made the appointment of these commissioners, for among the fifteen appointed by President Harrison only two or three are Democrats. This choice, while not condemned as being unwise, was said to be decidedly unfortunate, for he was convinced that a manual dinner of the Sons of St. George, and was the guest of the evening. Capt. > the action of Captain Murrell. He receives our approval for what he did in the sense of helping his fellow-man. If it should fall to our lot to pay for the cargo thrown overboard to make room for perishing men, we will pay the bill without a murmur. The course of Captain Murrell is approved on the same ground that it would have been disapproved had he acted differently. Had he allowed three hundred persons to have gone down to death without having done all in his power to save them he would not only have been discharged from the service of the com-pany, but would have merited, and no doubt would have received the just con-demnation of all who feel an interest in rescuing those who are in danger." Capt. Hamilton Murrell, the commander of the Missouri, now has the record of saving more human beings from death than any master of a ship in the past. His case was one of direct rescue, he having taken 735 persons from the Danmark, without

Failure of an Attempt to Operate an Iron-Mill with Non-Union Men.

PITTSBURG, April 23.—The arrival, this morning, of eighteen colored non-union men at the Allegheny Bessemer steel-works, at Duquesne, where a strike for an increase of wages is now in progress, created con siderable excitement. About 200 of the strikers had assembled at the gate leading to the works, and when the colored men marched up, a number of the strikers pulled their revolvers and threatened death to any who entered. They seemed in earnest, and after a parley of nearly an hour, during which threats of violence to "black sheep" workmen were made, the non-union men agreed to return to the city and not go to work. A subscription to pay their fares back was raised and they returned to Pittsburg on the next train. The big plant is still idle, the attempt to resume to-day having been abandoned. The strikers keep off the company's prop erty, but get as close to the line as possi-ble. As both sides appear firm, a long struggle is expected.

Another squad of twenty colored men went to Duquesne to-night, and succeeded in getting inside the works without being molested. As soon as they entered, however, the few white men still at work, including the bosses, left the mill and refused to go back as long as the colored men remained. About 7 o'clock this evening Superintendent Treat addressed the strikers and told them if they promised not to moand told them if they promised not to mo-lest the colored men, they would be sent back to the city. This the strikers agreed to do, and the negroes marched to the stato do, and the negroes marched to the sta-tion amid cheers. The mill-owners notified Sheriff McAndless that they would hold the county responsible for any damage done in case of a riot. The sheriff addressed the strikers, and the leaders premised to com-mit no overt act. The wives and daughters of the strikers are taking a prominent part | cigarettes daily.

Preparing to Leave the Knights.

DETROIT, April 23 .- An evening paper says: "The National Convention of Machinery Constructors, Knights of Labor, are in secret session in this city, with about twenty delegates in attendance. They are from all over the United States, representing draughtsmen, pattern-makers, molders, boiler-makers, blacksmiths and machinists. It transpires that it is the work of this convention which brought Powderly to Detroit. It has leaked out that this combination of Knights of Labor assem-blies, the most influential in numbers in the United States, have instructed their delegates to take steps to secede from the Knights of Labor and resolve themselves into trades-unions and have representation in the Federation of Trades. Their movement is based upon the claim that the general management of the Knights of Labor serves them in no good stead in their rela-tions with their trades; that it is an organ-ization which deals with abstract principles, while their immediate interests are of more importance, and that these interests will be better subserved in the trades-

Failure of the Minneapolis Street-Car Strike. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 23, - The street-car strike is virtually ended. The men are weakening. Twenty of the old men on the University-avenue line went to work on the company's terms this afternoon, signing an iron-clad agreement to cut loose from labor organizations. It was rumored this afternoon that the motor men were weakening, but, at a meeting held later in the day, it was unanimously agreed to continue the strike. The same agreed to continue the strike. The same five lines that were operated yesterday were running to-day and with better success. The cars were nearly all running on regular time, and more passengers were carried than yesterday. The motors were all running smoothly, and on time. The company say they will take all the old men back that they can use, but new men that are competent will be retained and given preference. It is thought that there will be a general break in the lines of the strikers to-morrow. strikers to-morrow.

Strike of Miners Predicted. PITTSBURG, Pa., April 23.-John B. Rae. master workman of the Miners' National Assembly No. 125, K. of L., was in the city to-day. Master Workman Rea has just returned from a tour of the Panhandle and Youghiogheny districts, where he said that he met with good success in organizing the miners. Mr. Rea made two important predictions. One was that there would be 8,000 miners in Indiana on strike on May 1, and the other was that the two rival organizations of miners that have fought so bit-terly would at last come to an amicable agreement and work in the interest their common cause. In speaking the threatened trouble in Indiana, he said: "I intend to go into that State at once. Various meetings will be held, and already the sentiment of the miners of both organizations is for strongly resisting the attempt of operators to force on them a 10 per cent. reduction in wages."

Drank Carbolic Acid.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Early this morning J. J. Scheepers, an employe in the auditor's office of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern railway, at Cedar Rapids, Ia., walked into a room in the City Hall and coolly drank two ounces of carbolic acid. It was done so deliberately that no one suspected anything wrong. Subsequently he was conveyed to the County Hospital, where he died.
